2016 "Aviation Days" Open House

Final preparations are being made for the York Airport "Aviation Days" Open House, which will take place on Saturday, June 18, (8A - 6P) and Sunday, June 19, (9A - 4P).

C-54 Skymaster "Spirit of Freedom"

We are excited to announce that the Berlin Airlift Historical Foundation's Douglas C-54 Skymaster "Spirit of Freedom" will be on display this year. The aircraft is a flying museum and memorial dedicated to preserving the history of the Berlin Airlift. The aircraft will be on static display and the museum inside the aircraft will be available for tours.

FACEBOOK!

B-25 Mitchell

Additionally, the Mid-Atlantic Air Museum will have a B-25 Mitchell on static display and a souvenir tent. The Civil Air Patrol will also display one of their search and rescue aircraft.

T-6 Texan

Aircraft rides in a T-6 Texan and Cessna 172 and helicopter rides in a Robinson R44 will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

York Flight Training, the flight school at York Airport, will offer a delicious lunch and dinner menu.

Be sure to come out on Father's Day weekend and enjoy the show!

MAY 50/50 WINNER:

Congratulations to Gary Wilson of Martinsburg, PA, for submitting the first correct answer to the May 50/50 Challenge Question. The aircraft pictured towing the enormous Me-321 is the 5-engined He-111Z Zwilling. They were constructed by connecting two standard He-111's and adding a fifth engine. Ten were built for the specific purpose of towing large German gliders.

JUNE 50/50 QUESTION:

The popular aircraft pictured above is a Beechcraft Travel Air. The Travel Air name is well-known in aviation, but this aircraft was designed and originally marketed by another name. Beech changed the name after the United States Air Force notified them it had been reserved as a NATO reporting codename for a Russian bomber. What was to be the original name of this aircraft?
